

The LPFM should not in any way change the availability of a national service like KLOVE to people. I listen to KLOVE every day, it has local announcements that I like to hear as well as the national broadcasting of Christian music. Family friendly broadcasting is extremely important to my family, especially in the trends of todays broadcasting. Quite frankly without a station like KLOVE I would purchase CD's and listen to them throughout the day in my home and in my vehicle. KLOVE, being listener supported, is in the public interest. Their views cannot be changed by the desire to sell additional advertising or market a certain demographic group.

Thank you for your time,
Connie Martin
